Sunday, January 29, 2017

1—2:30 p.m. Sharon Honig-Bear on Reno's Mid-Century Properties

Reno underwent a building boom in the 1960s and 70s to keep up with trends in modern architecture. Through a series of images, Sharon will describe the features that defined the Mid Century design movement, creating major changes in architecture and modern living. We will examine the style both internationally and how it was interpreted in Reno. Join in on the conversation about this style of design...clean and functional? Ugly and bare? Organic? This program may help you decide.

Sharon Honig-Bear is a tour leader with Historic Reno Preservation Society and created a Mid-Century Modern walk. She is currently secretary of the organization and founder of the annual Reno Harvest of Homes Tour. She was a longtime restaurant writer for the Reno Gazette Journal and currently writes a food history column for Edible Reno-Tahoe.
